OPTIMISTIC IN THE EAST

BELIEF IS CURRENT COMING YEAR WILL SEE RESUMPTION OF NEW YORK RACING.

Insatiable Personages Among Newcomers Attracted to Sport by Piping Rock Association—Plan for a Great Fair with Racing as an Attraction.

New York, December 14.—New Yorkers were slow to realize the full meaning of a statement made in the trotting department of the Herald a few days ago to the effect that the National Fair and Exposition Company of New York proposed to hold in 1913 a thirty days' fair, with running and trotting races, at some point in Greater New York.

The president of the association is R. M. Williams of Tennessee, a young man who has had much experience at the great fairs of the south and west and is personally well known to the best men connected with the thoroughbred in his own state. His grandfather was a close friend of General Harding, the first owner of Belle Meade, and Mr. Williams is a practical breeder himself. His idea is that this great city of five million people will be glad to have a chance to turn out to a fair, especially as, in addition to the ordinary attractions, he intends to have all the best trotters and as many of the best runners as their owners will send to take part in it. He thinks that the great masses of the people who, he says, are more or less prejudiced against the betting end of racing, would look favorably upon proposed legislative relief after they had become personally cognizant of the finer, more sentimental features of racing, both in running or trotting.

Mr. Williams seems confident that his financial backers will reap large returns upon their investments and that the proposed fair will mark a epoch in amusement in this part of the country. He told me that he could have his choice of several existing race courses upon which to hold his fair. Without eliciting from him any specific place upon which his meeting, I gleaned from other sources that the Brighton Beach course may be the scene of the proposed thirty-days' fair. It is within half an hour's ride of the Manhattan City Hall, is accessible by the water routes, and in the month of August particularly the idea of the fair combined with seaside attractions might prove a wonderful financial success.

However, to hold a thirty-days' running meeting Mr. Williams would have to secure the approval of the Jockey Club stewards, and that is the rock upon which his ship may founder, for, though we are not yet in the new year, the question of racing dates is now a source of some meditation to the stewards on account of the claims of Jamestown, Pimlico and Havre de Grace for spring meetings, to say nothing of what may have to be done on the New York circuit. There is a strong optimistic feeling that we are to have racing on some of the local courses in 1913, and it is even said that Belmont Park on Decoration day may be the first to open the ball. There has been talk of three days a week, but this may not satisfy horsemen, who naturally will want weekday racing. Those who look hopefully forward declare that Saratoga at least will have every-day racing. Then there are the amateurs to look out for. The birth of the Piping Rock Racing Association, with its attendant princely liberality in the matter of large stakes, has given the sport a great impetus. There is a lot of new young blood interested in racing since Piping Rock came into existence. Merchants with princely incomes abound in the list of subscribers to the new stakes to be run next year. At the October meeting of the racing association an array of multi-millionaires "check by jowl" with the recognized leaders in fashionable functions.

Among others I saw there were the widow of the late Edward H. Harriman, whose son Averill owned one of the best farms in the state, and her son-in-law, Robert L. Gerry, whose horses ran during the meeting. With Mrs. Harriman's party were Robert S. Lovett, the lawyer who was Mr. Harriman's chief adviser, and in the same confidential position for the widow. Two close relatives of the famous line of Abraham Strans are also newcomers on the turf, brought into it by the Piping Rock fever. The Messrs. Pratt of Standard Oil fame are large land owners in the town of Rome, and one of the property of one of them is being built up of a stable and several cottages in which the newcomers in the ranks of owners may sleep overnight when they come down to see their youngsters do their morning exercise next week.

This young association, of which Mr. Paul Cravat is the head, is extremely ambitious. It craves to acquire as many of the old-time turf fixtures for its program as it can. The latest addition to its schedule is the handsomely equipped Whitney Memorial Steeplechase, to which each year for the next three H. P. Whitney is donating $5,000 as a memorial to his father. The race has always been a notable one at Belmont Park, where it was won by Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., with his great jumper Good and Plenty, and in its third year this fine old horse ran second. One day recently it was my duty to make a trip by automobile from Hempstead, L. I., to an old farm some miles distant, upon which a point-to-point race was to be run. Our road for several miles was over the Jericho turnpike, and my attention was attracted to a series of beautifully trimmed hedges, with wings nearly eighteen inches higher than the fences themselves, and circled by a fairly wide dirt track. It was the home at Westbury of Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., and as I looked upon the neatly kept grounds I no longer wondered at the long-continued dominance of Mr. Hitchcock in his steeplechase and show horse career here by getting the best possible schooling, often with their owner up, also with his wife and daughter riding, and again with J. Lambert in the saddle. Lambert has been in the employment of Mr. Hitchcock for eighteen years.

It was at Westbury all summer that Mr. Hitchcock schooled his phenomenal three-year-old filly Meadowswet, by Yankee-Campo, by Hastings, which won at Piping Rock in such decisive style as to prompt her new owner, Ambrose Clark, to scratch her from the Harbor Hill, worth at least $1,000, and ship her at once to England, where she now is. Speaking of Mr. Clark, I heard the other day that in 1910, at one of our amateur steeplechase meetings, there was a debit of $4,900, which he drew a check for and thus out of pure sportsmanship made good. Meadowswet had never run in public when he purchased her for $5,000 from Mr. Hitchcock, and her victory over so good a trial horse as Highbridge pleased him immensely.

A man I know told me today that H. P. Whitney has no less than eighty polo ponies in training at his place at Westbury, L. I., for next June's international matches. If an unlimited expenditure can bring it about, the polo cup will remain on this side of the water. The chief thing we may lack may be players. We have no such numbers to draw from as has the Duke of Westminster and his associates. Speaking of polo ponies, it was told to me as a fact that Mr. Belmont bred Rock Sand last year to a number of polo pony mares with the object of producing a superior kind of polo pony. To a man who expressed surprise at this, Mr. Belmont is reported

MARYLAND NOW IMPORTANT AS A RACING CENTER

Largely because of conditions arising from the continued suspension of racing on the New York tracks, Maryland has become an important racing center. Racing on a conservative, but at the same time sublimely natural thing that the sport should have expanded as it has when the opportunity presented itself. There are now three admirable race tracks within the borders of the old commonwealth and the circuit is one that is patronized by many of the most prominent of American owners. Pimlico, the oldest of the three courses, has long been noted as a racing ground and has been the scene of many a notable contest between famous American thoroughbreds. Its patronage is largely drawn from the first families of Maryland and adjoining states, with the result that meetings at this track are among the notable social events of each succeeding year in that locality. The Laurel track was built last year and the races there are conducted in connection with a state fair. The two meetings so far given at Laurel have been eminently successful. The Havre de Grace track was built and opened this year. Its patronage comes largely from the great city of Philadelphia, on account of its convenient accessibility from that point.

The racing at Pimlico and at Havre de Grace is governed by commissions deriving their authority from legislative enactments, while the Laurel track operates under the provisions of the general law. The Baltimore County Commissioners, who exercise jurisdiction over Pimlico, have decreed that the bookmakers shall give way to the pari-mutuels and the coming year will see the installation of the mutual system of betting as the exclusive method for speculation at the famous old "hill-top" track. The other tracks, it is presumed, will continue to use the bookmaking system for another year at least. The general results of the year on the tracks of Maryland are summarized in the subjoined tabulation:

Table with columns: Track and Meeting, Number of Races Run, Number of Wins, Number of Owners, Number of Horses, Total Distribution, etc. Includes entries for Pimlico, Laurel, Electric Park, Baltimore, and Marlboro.

Totals and Grand Percentage . . . 114 722 . . . $342,175 292 180 249 96 72 .40

*No betting on one race (walk-over).

The total distribution in the state exceeded that of the previous year by a substantial amount. The Maryland Jockey Club contributed considerably less to the total than in 1911, and the Laurel track stands first in this respect. The amounts distributed by the various organizations are shown in the following tabulation:

Table with columns: Organization, 1912, 1911. Lists various racing associations and their financial contributions.

The Pimlico track continued to be the leader in daily average distribution, with Laurel a close second. This phase of the matter is shown in the subjoined table:

Table with columns: Track, Days, Races, 1912, 1911. Compares daily racing statistics for Pimlico, Laurel, and other tracks.

H. C. Hallebeck's stable of stars, under trainer Frank M. Taylor's skillful management, put that wealthy New Yorker at the head of the list of the money-winning owners, and another wealthy New York owner, R. T. Wilson, stands second. Then comes T. C. McDowell, one of the best known of Kentucky owners and after him come H. K. Knapp, a steward of the Jockey Club, who races in the name of the Oneck Stable, H. G. Bedwell, the Beverwyck Stable and J. W. Seborn. The following list embraces all owners who won $500 or over on the circuit:

JUAREZ MEETING IN STRIDE

PATRONAGE AT MEXICAN TRACK GREATLY IN EXCESS OF FORMER SEASONS THERE.

Better Horses Now Coming Into Action as Result of Improvement in Track Conditions—Pan Zareta Takes All-Aged Handicap.

El Paso, Tex., December 14.—More than two weeks of the Jockey Club Juarez meeting has now passed into history and the meeting is well in its stride. Each day shows an improvement in attendance as compared with the one preceding it and the betting has been unusually heavy for the early part of such a long meeting. It is a healthy sort of betting, being devoid of the plunging that makes business unsettled in a betting ring. Each day brings new arrivals to the city of El Paso from the surrounding races at Juarez. In fact, almost every visitor to El Paso regardless of their liking for racing, goes to the Jockey Club Juarez to see a day's sport and not a few, after inspecting the great plant, decide to go no farther and as a result will spend the winter here.

Despite the unfavorable weather and track conditions that have prevailed, the meeting is in a more prosperous and promising condition than ever before in the history of the Jockey Club Juarez. The attendance has been far above the average of past years, speculation is much livelier and there is an air of prosperity all around that is most encouraging. Thus far the cheaper of the western and Texas horses, owing to the lack of condition of the better class of horses because of bad weather, have had their innings, but with improved conditions, the quality of the fields has improved during the past few days and the "bush" horses will be relegated to the rear.

The fourth race today, a handicap at five and a half furlongs, was run in the fastest time of the present meeting. J. F. Newman's two-year-old Pan Zareta showed her heels to a good band of sprinters and demonstrated her gameness by standing a long drive. Lady Panchita challenged an eighth out and in a stirring finish, the juvenile outgamed the older mare. Lady Panchita is now rounding to the good form she displayed on the Inter-Mountain circuit last summer when she took the measure of some of the best sprinters that raced in the west. Fawnbank, which has been on the shelf for some time, made his initial appearance in this race and performed in a creditable manner. Cracker Box ran a promising race and closed gallantly.

Edwin Sanson won her first purse of the meeting for George Odum and was bid up by Jack Sturgis from $300 to $500, at which figure Mr. Odum let her go. William Beverley returned to the layers' row at the draw. The dissolution of the partnership between F. M. Hopper and W. Freeman, which was to have taken place today, did not occur. The disposal sale of horses advertised was declared off and the two will continue to race jointly as heretofore.

Eleven head of yearlings, the property of W. K. Gerst, of Valley Falls, Kans., are expected to arrive tonight. They will be sold in the paddock in the afternoon at public auction. They are the progeny of Albina and Hensolate. Lester Kraft, who booked successfully at the Maryland tracks, operated a new book in the ring today.

T. W. O'Brien, one of the leading turf speculators in this country, arrived late last night to remain all winter. P. A. Maloué will act as agent for Frank Weir and will make Jockey McCabe's engagements. A complaint made to ringmaster Gene Errod by the layers who have booked steadily since the meeting began against those who followed the practice of staying away when weather and track conditions were bad and cutting in again on days when conditions were more favorable, has had the effect of causing Mr. Errod to decree that the cut-in shall be for three days instead of one day as formerly.

H. Garrity, long connected as trainer and racing partner with A. B. Dunlap, the Los Angeles turfman, is now at the Santa Anita ranch in California and has assumed charge of the horses owned by the estate of the late E. J. Baldwin. There are still some forty thoroughbred mares in his possession of this estate, besides sixteen yearlings and about the same number of weanlings. There are also several stallions on the place, including Palo Alto and Cremados. The supposition is that Garrity will develop the youngsters now on the place and those bred in the future there and send them from time to time to the public market unless they have been previously disposed of by private sale. In the last five years many common mares were bred to the thoroughbred horses at Santa Anita Ranch and as a result there are now upward of 400 horses on the place. These half-bred horses are being eagerly sought after by buyers for the United States army, they being ideal types for cavalry mounts.

Jockey J. Howard, who was suspended here last winter by the stewards of the Jockey Club Juarez for an attempt to commit fraud, and whose acts caused the retirement from the turf of the two other riders, A. Wabbe and A. Wrispen, has evidently abandoned hopes of securing a reinstatement that will enable him to ride again. He has secured an interest in a Texas oil enterprise and is making his headquarters in Canada, covering the cities of Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal. Howard was at one time well-to-do, but he dissipated most of his money in racing a stable of horses which he bought outright. He had these performers trained and did the riding himself, but met with bad luck and as a consequence went broke. His ability as a jockey consisted chiefly in alertness at the start. Trifmen from California, who are now numerous at the Jockey Club Juarez track, have brought information here that the famous "White Hat" McCarty is still in good health in the Golden State. It is twenty-five years since Mr. McCarty won the American Derby at Washington Park, Chicago, with C. H. Todd's rank outsider in that great race. The starters in the race that season included the noted fillies Wary and Miss Ford, and the brilliant colt Terra Cotta. The $15,000 that C. H. Todd won for McCarty that day gave him the start which has enabled him to keep the wolf from his door. At first, people paid little attention to McCarty's odd fur hat, but after C. H. Todd won the American Derby, the peculiar headgear attracted universal attention. The daily papers obtained the hat more than they did McCarty's coat.

The famous jockey C. H. Shilling has two brothers who are planning to follow in the footsteps of the successful Texas rider. One of the lads is twelve and the other fourteen years old, E. B. Munford, trainer of Meadow and other horses owned by Wade McLemore, has made an effort to secure one of the boys, but as yet their father has not decided just what stance he would like to let them become connected with. Both are being taught to ride at the home place at Paris, Tex.

The father of jockey M. Nathan, G. M. Odum's apprentice, is here on a visit with his boy and will remain for a week or two. He came here chiefly to sign the papers which will give Mr. Odum two years' longer service from Nathan than the contract already held by the owner of Follie Levy calls for. Mr. Odum's old contract had only one more year to run, he having had a four years' contract at the start. Nathan falls from New York and is the only member of his family who has taken up the riding of horses as a profession. 'Silver Bill' Riley, veteran of American union pool sellers, is at the Juarez track for the winter and is loud in praise of the racing plant and its appointments. Mr. Riley is now enjoying good health. He has not been in this section of the country for many years. The last time he was in El Paso, racing was then conducted on the American side of the Rio Grande and he sold auction pools on the track at that time. He has probably sold pools on more racetracks than any living man, but says he never visited a more inviting course than that of the Jockey Club Juarez. C. J. Casey thinks his three-year-old Cracker Box will soon be ready to win. The son of Octagon has been training as well as any horse quartered at the Juarez track. Cracker Box has developed into a grand looking three-year-old, having grown and spread out amazingly. Good judges think it will take some of the best handicap horses to beat the brother to Crossover in the next few weeks. William Hurley, who formerly trained El Cracker Box, is assisting Casey in the preparation of Cracker Box. Hurley has had the three-year-old all season and saddled him in the Palmetto Derby, when he finished second to Jawbone. The colt struck himself at Louisville in training for the Kentucky Derby last spring and was out of training all summer. J. W. Young thinks Anto Run will do some good racing here as a three-year-old after the New Year starts. He has lately had the horse tamed first. The next stake to be held at the Juarez track is the Navidad Handicap, one mile, for all ages, which will be the special attraction on Christmas Day. FIRE AT LATONIA TRACK.

Cincinnati, O., December 14.—The Latonia race track buildings were endangered by fire late last night and only the prompt response of the Covington fire brigade prevented the grandstand from being destroyed. The fire started in the stables near the railroad tracks and is supposed to have been caused by live embers from a passing engine. A row of stables near the clubhouse was destroyed.

to have said, "Why, polo ponies now are worth $3,000 each, and are hard to get—that is, the right sort. You won't find thoroughbreds averaging $3,000 each."

Racing men who read recently of the Maryland Jockey Club's determination to devote to charity all its profits over 6 per cent and necessary expenses think that if some of the surplus thus set aside were to be used to import high-class stallions and mares to this country some good would be achieved.

In connection with this, I hear that Mr. Belmont was sorry to let Rock Sand go to the French syndicate which bought that horse. If Mr. Halbronn had not carried out to the letter every item of his contract when he secured the option, Mr. Belmont would have refused to let the horse go.

At the time of this writing I learn with great regret that Major Daingerfield, who has taken a turn for the worse. He is at Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore. I have often wondered what Mr. Keene would have done without the sterling ability of Major Daingerfield at Castleton.

GOSSIP FROM EASTERN SOURCES.

New York, December 14.—J. Howard Lewis was a visitor at the Jockey Club offices recently, and he brought the news that Joseph E. Widener had pensioned Coligny and called two horses that were always great public favorites through the steeplechase field. They will take matters easily to the end of their days in comfortable quarters at Elkton Park, the Widener place near Philadelphia.

Herman Flippen has deserted the turf. He is now a farmer and the only horse he has left is the jumper Lizzie Blue, which is being trained by Charles Douglas. Fine was when Mr. Flippen cut a figure in the cross-country sport.

At the next meeting of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association a rule will be introduced to combine the qualified and bona fide hunters in one class. This will naturally result in larger fields and better racing at the amateur and hunt club race meetings.

Simon F. Rothschild, a new comer to the turf, and owner of the Lynchpates—Miss Rose colt that he drew to the second place in the bookkeeping scheme, has registered his colors with the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association. His silks are cherry and white stripes with white sleeves and white cap.

ONE WAY OF GETTING A TIP.

Cecil Raleigh, English journalist and playwright, is running his reminiscences through Vanity Fair. Among his stories are the following: "Chasing the course," muttered the old man.

"They are quiet," said the Sybil; "now they all move suddenly, looking one way."

"But the colors?" "That color is in front!" "I can see red, blue and white, purple, yellow; they are nearer still, much nearer."

"But the colors?" "They are near to a tall white post; one horse is in front."

"What is it?" "At this particular moment the crystal split and shattered with a resounding crash."

RUNNING OF THE CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

Incidents Attending the Decision of One of England's Most Famous Handicaps.

No great race ever sprang into prominence and popularity so quickly as the Cambridgeshire. First run for in 1839, the entries increased from fifty-five in its inaugural year to 162 a decade later, and in 1853 no less than 200 animals were nominated for the race.

It was Mr. Bowes, the owner of the great West Australian, who predicted that the Cambridgeshire would develop into the most important handicap in the world and that his sportsman lived to see his prediction not far from fulfilled.

Admiral, or as he then was, Captain, Ross used to declare that he never witnessed a fiercer or more thrilling struggle than that at the finish of the Cambridgeshire in 1843. A contest which would have covered the first five horses as they flashed past the judge, Mr. Eddison's Nat winning by a short head from Mr. Crockford's Pineapple.

On the 14th of December, 1855, and ten months afterwards landed with him in the Cambridgeshire, (worth $8,375 that year) and a fortune in the hands of the Cambridgeshire, which was won by the Cesarewitch, and was originally, when known as the Chickie, the property of the villainous Palmer.

Many Derby winners have taken part in the Cambridgeshire during the history of that event, but no better one, probably, than Gladiator, which, as a three-year-old in 1855, fresh from his classic triumphs in England and France, was the compliment of being asked to carry 138 pounds in the great handicap.

At the next meeting of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association a rule will be introduced to combine the qualified and bona fide hunters in one class. This will naturally result in larger fields and better racing at the amateur and hunt club race meetings.

STAR SHOOT GOES TO HAMBURG PLACE.

Leading Stallion of Last Two Years to Stand During Coming Season at J. E. Madden's Establishment.

Lexington, Ky., December 14.—John Harrison, brother of the late C. L. Harrison, widely known contractor and turfman who died recently, is making arrangements for the transfer of the sixteen thoroughbred horses his brother left him to Ausrasse, Mo. Mr. Harrison has a farm at Ausrasse, which is near Mexico, the center of a fertile district, and there he intends to breed, raise and train thoroughbreds.

At the Kentucky Association track and on the breeding farms hereabouts there is little doing just now. It is a between season period in training and breeding. Secretary Garret D. Wilson is engaged in mailing to the contributors for the Breeder's Futurities of 1913 and 1914 notices that payments are due on January 1, of $25 and $10 respectively.

Mr. Ross is highly elated over the good racing prospect he has in the coming three-year-old, Uncle Hart, son of Stalwart and Lady Balgovan, dam of Lady Irma, holder of the American record for five and one-half furlongs in 1:04 1/4.

Woodford Clay's yearlings, six in number, in charge of French Brooks, at the local track, look like exceptionally good prospects.

Tom Harmon is training U Steppa for F. H. Hawkins and he is developing into a handsome horse. He weighs 1,085 pounds.

John E. Madden announced today that Star Shoot, Ogden and Migraule will be the stallions at Hamburg Place for 1913. Mr. Madden has acquired a half interest in Star Shoot.

Public curiosity as to how the racing situation here with regard to the law will work out continues keen. The law prohibits betting on the races, but does not prohibit the racing itself.

The index of racing men is becoming more noticeable on the streets. Many of the owners of the different strings of horses now stabled at the Park are here.

There are now more than five hundred horses at the track. They are being galloped and trained in preparation for the races, the track now being in excellent condition.

AN ENGLISH OWNER'S GOOD FORTUNE.

E. Hulston was no doubt vastly disappointed when his extremely fast colt Lomond failed to stay the long St. Leger route at Doncaster, but he has his compensation in the fact that he owns quite a band of winning two-year-olds, of high class, one of which, Shogun, may be destined to the highest honors of the turf as a three-year-old. Concerning these two-year-olds, "Vigilant," of London Sportsman wrote recently: "It is not often the good fortune of one owner to be possessed of so many two-year-old winners in the same season, as is the case this year with Mr. Edward Hulston. Of his string of seventeen juveniles no fewer than nine have succeeded in winning more or less substantial sums, and as there are nearly three months of the racing season still to be run off no doubt a number of other valuable events will fall to the share of the chief patron of Treadwell House, Epsom, already the nine two-year-old winners sanded by R. Woolton have among them secured twenty-six races, worth in the aggregate $54,682, and several of the remainder are likely to do something towards paying for their hay and corn before the end of the season, while such of the chief contributors towards the total amount won up to the present can be expected with confidence to make 1912 a memorable year for the pale blue and maize-hooped jacket. The star of the party is, of course, Shogun, who, despite the fact that his debut is not in the Stud Book, has annexed such races of the first importance as the Woolcote Stakes and Coventry Stakes, together with capital side dishes like the Hyde Park Plate, Fulbourne Stakes and the Latent Stakes, amounting in the aggregate to $24,487. "The next important contributor is Eastern Rose, the chief item in whose winning total of three races of the value of $6,790 is the Acorn Stakes. Thistleton has won the most races of any, but the most valuable event of the half dozen credited to him was the Lytham Two-Year-Old Stakes of $1,765, at Manchester. Nevertheless, he has run up a total of $6,310, while of the two events which have been annexed by Queen's Man the Rona Memorial at Goodwood was worth all but a hundred of his total of $5,425. A most promising colt in Epsom last week secured the time-honored Gimcrack Stakes of $4,675 in style which betokened further honors to come. Wainthia, too, should with ordinary luck increased her total of $2,990, the proceeds of three minor successes, and Marsden has, on four occasions, hoisted a winning flag, as did also Bleas-
